This course is an introduction to architecture history and architectural civilization. To benefit the Chinese students who are lack of the common knowledge of western civilization and history, and who are not familiar with the images and scenes of historical architecture and art works, this course takes a most successful and popular TV series (Game of Thrones) as the media. Through the parallel world (of the ancient and medieval Europe) provided by this epic show, and by the help of the architectural and city images on the screen, this course gives a general but comprehensive introduction of the architectural history of western civilization in the ancient and medieval times.
